

the impossibility of poetry in a universe geared to entropy

dan holloway

© 2012, dan holloway
published by 79 rat press <http://danholloway.wordpress.com> <http://79ratpress.blogspot.com>

you have never read this poem before you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again

you have never read this poem before
you will never read this poem again